IV. Reading comprehension

Recent research has shown that more than half of the businesses in the USA are home-based. There are 6.6 million of these home businesses, and they make up 10% of the USA's workforce. This trend of people starting businesses out of their homes is accelerating for numerous reasons. First of all, during an economic downturn, many people lose their jobs. Unable to find work, they start their own businesses as a source of primary income. These people have become known as "homepreneurs."

Homepreneurs have found that running a business from their home makes sense because of the low costs involved. They do not need to rent an office for one thing. Also, computer technology allows them to cheaply and smoothly run their business without having to hire many workers. However, if this trend continues, the economy may improve, but the unemployment rates could remain high. The more people work for themselves at home, the fewer companies open up and hire workers.

- 47. Which is most suited to the title "homepreneur"?
 - A. A small business owner
 - B. A home-based business
 - C. An unemployed homeowner
 - D. A person that works at home
- 48. Which percentage most closely matches the number of businesses that are home-based in the USA?
 - A. 10%
 - B. 25%
 - C. 55%
 - D. 45%
- 49. What is listed as one of the main reasons why people start home businesses?
 - A. They already have full-time jobs.
 - B. They can't find work elsewhere.

- C. Their offices are nearby.
 - D. To cut out delivery costs
50. What will opening home businesses probably NOT do?
- A. Have negative effects on working conditions
 - B. Reduce business costs
 - C. Improve the economy
 - D. Reduce unemployment rates
